SPRING SYMPOSIUM 2023 OF THE COMMISSION PERIOPERATIVE MEDICINE

NEW HORIZONS IN THE PERIOPERATIVE MANAGEMENT OF FRAIL PATIENTS

Interactive presentations and case discussions

May 5th, Hotel Kreuz, Bern

Dear Colleagues

The number of elderly patients with frailty is increasing and increases in the next few years. There is a strong association between frailty and postoperative major adverse events including death. There is more and more awareness for the complex care and communication needs of frail patients treated often on an emergency basis.

The aim of this spring symposium 2023 is to develop interactively and with national experts some management aspects for this vulnerable population. During the afternoon work with real cases the specific aspects of frail patients can be trained and discussed. After the symposium the participants should be empowered to train their house staff in early recognition and management of frail patients at risk of perioperative major adverse events. The symposium will contribute to improve patient outcomes and decrease healthcare spending.

For the commission perioperative medicine

Prof Bernhard Walder
